LUNCHTIME SURVIVAL

Lunchtime used to be so exciting — blazing out to McDonald's for Big Macs, planning last minute rides, and just "getting away". With this year came the first of closed campus. Although it struck gloom in most, some creative people got busy trying to make the most of it. Music became commonplace. Many freshmen had the honor to be trashcanned. Food fights broke out in the crowds and died as fast. One girl got handcuffed to a trashcan and another had the school singing Happy Birthday to her. The egg drop was traditionally carried out. Intramurals became popular with sports ranging from volleyball to hacky sac. Captain Fogel from KS103 entertained us and gave away prizes. The activities at lunch gave us the opportunity to try new things and helped the sight of the campus become a little more bearable.

Step Into . . .

The activities of the SPHS Eagles would not be complete without mention of our favorite one—the night life! Friday and Saturday evenings, after ballgames, movies, parties, or for no reason at all, they swept down on Round Table for pizza, went cruising on Valley Pkwy., or jammed the Door. Eagles could be seen at McDonald's, macking out and celebrating victories of all kinds. The blue and gold stepped out this year and painted the town red.

SPIRIT WEEK HAILS HOMECOMING

Spirit Week hailed the Homecoming game in an array of costumes. Monday saw girls in poodle skirts and guys in leather jackets for 50's day. Tuesday, Nerd day, there was a rush of KMart specials and rip-offs from Peewee Herman and Biff and Skippy. (One nerd proved the point by dressing up a day late!) On Wednesday SPHS was raided by brilliant Hawaiian shirts and skimpy grass skirts. By Thurday, everyone was happy to have s simpler outfit — togas. It was old Greece in the SPHS pantheon. Friday, Eagles burst into their traditional blue and gold colors, but in most original ways. More people could have dressed up, but those who did proved that spirit is alive and well at San Pasqual.

FLOATS BECOME FAIRYTALES

A

With another school year came another Homecoming! Spirit soared this year not only on campus, but in float competition as well. The theme this year was Fairytales and Nursery Rhymes as each of the classes produced their favorite. A tradition started last year rang true again this one, the Juniors captured first place; the Seniors came in second; Freshmen, third, and Sophomores, fourth. Goes to show, spirit can be found in SPHS students!

FEATHERS FLY AT PEP RALLIES

The year began with a bang as the football team flew to victory and we cheered them on at pep rallies. Pep rallies gave a chance for everyone to get into the action.

Dances this year were hotter than ever. Special features included Steve West, a DJ from 91X for the Masquerade Dance, silver, blue, and gold balloons and decorations for homecoming and the Senior Prom was as unique and special as ever! The dances let us meet new people and enjoy the latest hits as well as videos! It was one activity that let the Eagles rock the nest! SPHS still has the hottest dances around!

S.P. And Burrough's Celebrate Second Year

On December 10th, San Pasqual and adoptor, Burroughs, held their second annual birthday party. The audience was entertained by the Vocal Ensemble, history students, and mimes. They recreated the beginnings and growth of the corporation with an artistic touch. This year marked Burroughs 100th year — from adding machines to computer technology. Since taking us under their wing, they've donated both money and time to the school. After the formal celebration, tons of free cake were served to an overwhelming lunchtime crowd.

DRAMA PRODUCES "THE MIRACLE WORKER"

During the first semester this year, the Drama Club put on its version of the famous play, The Miracle Worker. Mrs. Boyd as director had her hands full getting lines down for the actors, collecting props, borrowing costumes from the supporting Patio Playhouse, and controlling Hannibal, the Schnauzer who caused many a laugh. The first week of performances had to be cancelled, but the show went on in the second weekend of December. The story of Helen Keller is that of a deaf, mute, blind child, portrayed by Sarah Graybeal, who is finally controlled and taught by Annie Sullivan (Susan Binder). It's a tender, moving story about the life of Miss Sullivan and how, in the end, human courage and spirit can overcome the hardest of obstacles.

Academically, our campus is a diverse one. San Pasqual boasts education in the forms of Sims School, special ed., vocational training, and many others. Last year, the senior class of 1985 won $30,000 for SP because of their high scores overall in testing. They actually got to help designate where the money would go. According to counselor Mrs. Arner, the senior class each year continues to score higher. This year's seniors were around when pressure began to build for college prep classes. They kept San Pasqual above average in state, national, and regional ranking for the SAT. Juniors, sophomores, and freshmen are now required to take specific courses to graduate. This keeps students up to par. Though districts plan to make a ranking system among different high schools to test academic ability, we have only ourselves to look to for higher goals yet. And when they do begin the scale, SPHS plans to be at the top.

English Classes Enrich Our Lives

The English Department is one of the big areas in academics. Classes include the regulation grammar and vocabulary, but reading, speech, advanced composition, and literature courses are other options. Not all are hard work and no play, however. Some classes, like the above picture of Mrs. Knight's Renaissance Faire where students reenacted Shakespeare's times from food to costumes, had special activities. Ms. Keithley's class had a traditional and authentic tea party, complete with crumpets. Ms. DeVroeg's freshmen baked cakes representing their book characters, and her senior advanced compositionists created a special magazine for their own talented works. (Pictured: Evan Vernon)

English As A Second Language Is Also Taught On Campus

Some students chose to take English as a second language, to improve in that area. They came from homes where Chinese, Vietnamese, Spanish, Persian, and Laos were the dominant languages spoken. Ms. Boyd got them involved with not only the academic area of knowing English, but also had her student take a look at some of the culture, history, and geography that's behind the language we speak so freely.

Communicative Arts Gives Hands On Experience

Yearbook, newspaper, journalism, photography, library science, and Drama I and II, are offered at SPHS in the area of Communicative Arts. Students learned basic skills, like stage direction and layout design, and short-cuts like interviewing correctly and the Dewy Decimal System. They discovered nothing takes the place of actually experiencing the perfect shot or meeting goals under pressure. By the time a project is completed the students have learned how to reach out and touch someone else. (Pictured (L to R): Kerry Panno; Brian Rundlett, and Anna Alcala)

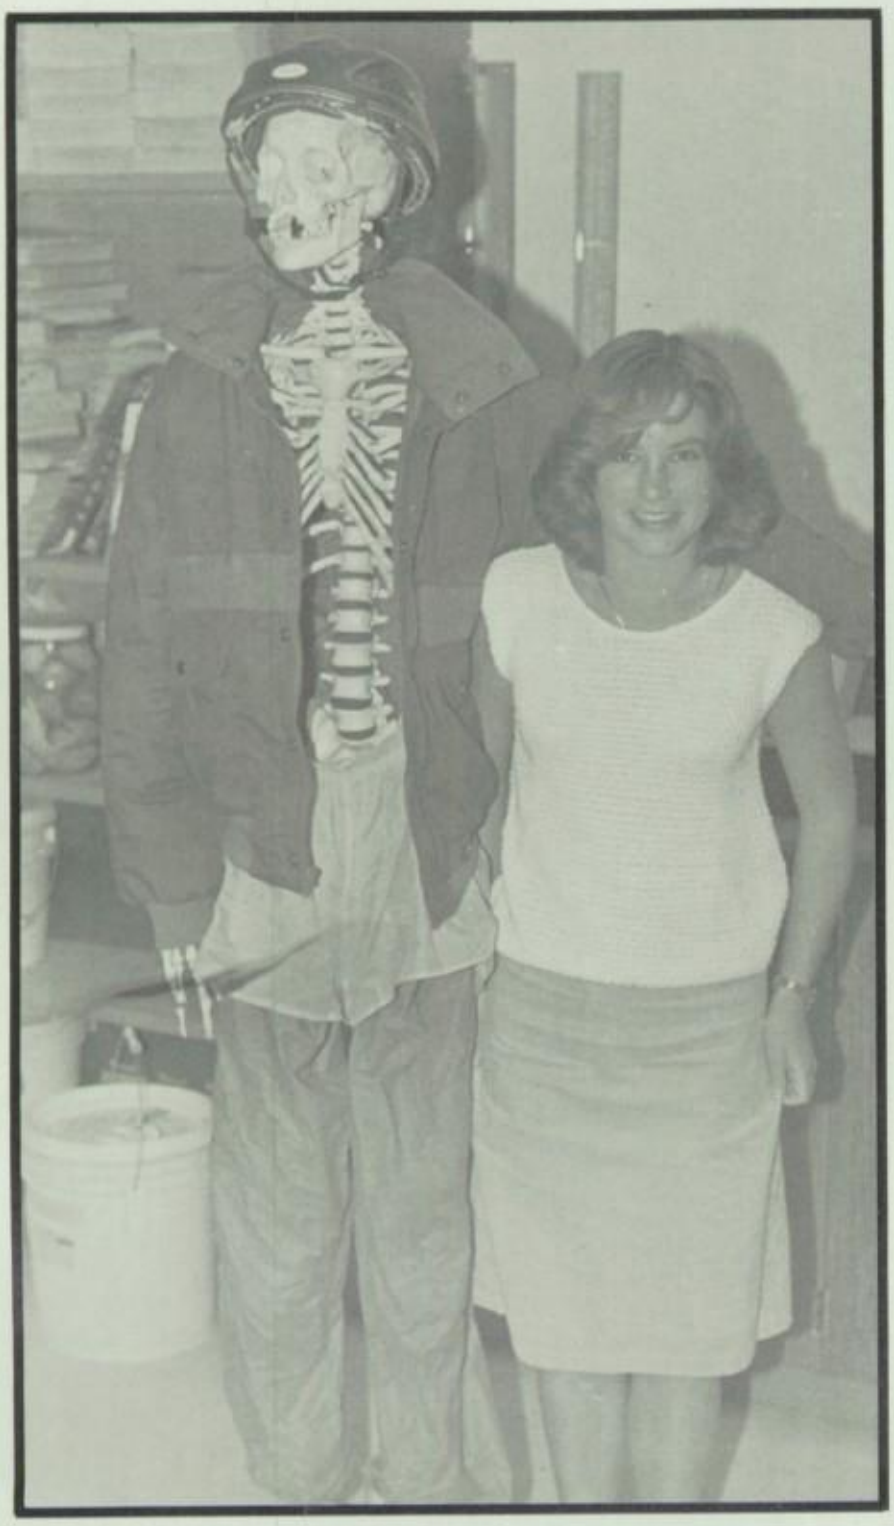
Culture Days Acquaint Us With Other Lifestyles

Language courses helped students meet prerequisites for college and graduation. SPHS offers Spanish, French, and German. These classes are enhanced by clubs and activities such as culture days (left, Frau Squires' students enjoy some German specialties and end up engaged in a little American horse-play!). These culture days, focusing on their individual countries and menus for the day, included everything from real excargot and eclairs to stroganoff and German chocolate cake with cherries to enchiladas and taco salads. Senora Mojica's class even made video reports on Spanish speaking countries like Belize on tapes. (Pictured (L to R): Robert Spice and Gene Whiteley-Ross)

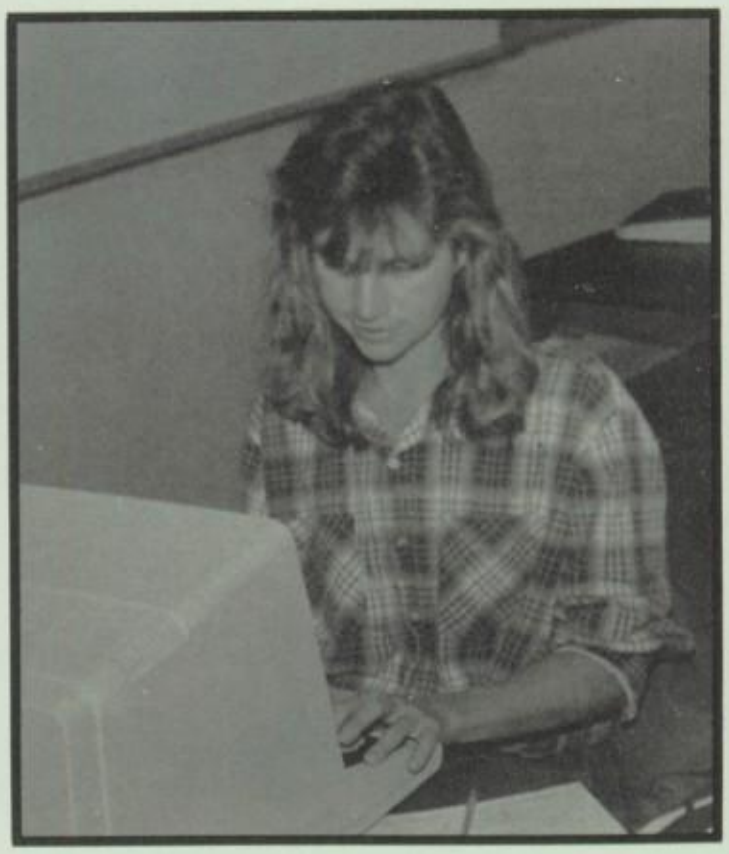
Art Allows Us To Be Creative

Among the wide variety of art classes at SPHS is Cermaics, drawing, commercial art, regular art, and painting. Many students use these courses to either bring out their talents or to just get away from a routine and be creative. Contests, outside activities, clubs, and challenges make them a refreshing change from a tough schedule. Many of their works were displayed in the library and entered into the annual art fair in the Escondido Mall (Pictured: Mark Hughes)

Science Department Offers A Wide Range Of Studies



The Science Department boasts a wide range of studies, biology, chemistry, physics physiology, and psychology. Everything from science fairs and weird experiments to recycling and dissecting give the science classes a new perspective on the physical and mental world around them. (Pictured: Dominique Kitchen)

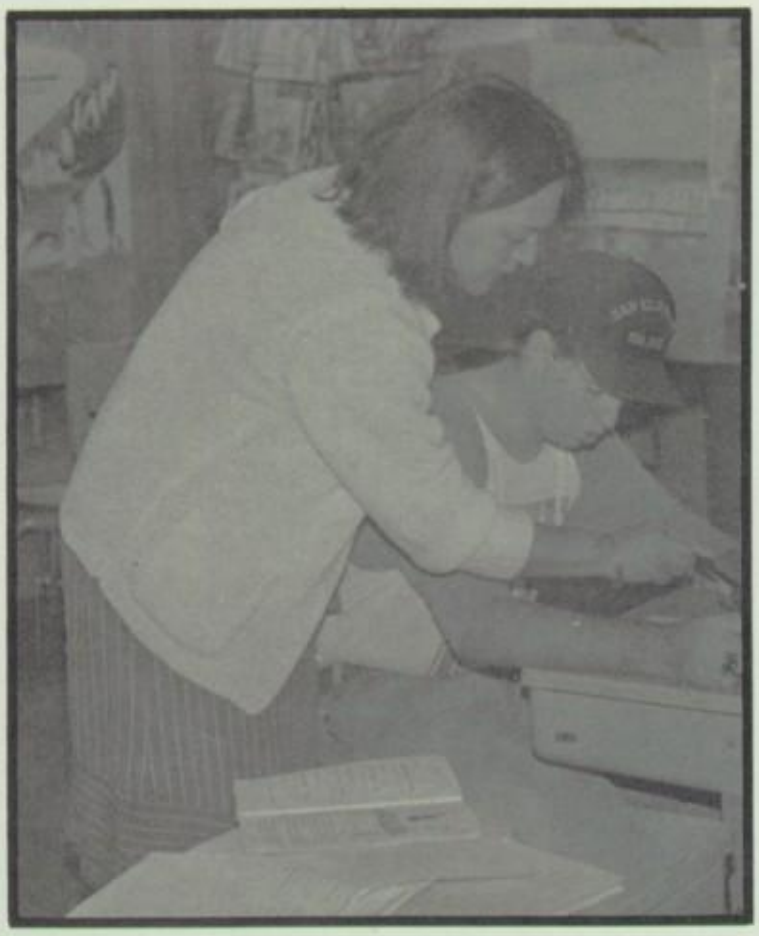


Individual Attention Is Given In Special Education

SPHS rounds out its wide range of academics with the Special Education classes. There were three general areas covered: handicapped remedial classes for those students who needed more basic skills and and the resource classes for students with average IQ's who were mainstreamed in regular classes. "In the handicapped classes," says Mrs. Stevens of her students, "I try to teach basic skills, like cooking, handling money, shopping, riding city buses, and keeping jobs either on campus or in the community." Most students are here approximately six years, depending on their progress. The remedial and resource classes are more for mainstreaming students who need help in specific areas of learning. The goal of the Special Ed classes is to help students reach their potential, be job-ready, and have a good self-esteem. As a new project this year, students volunteered to spend time with these special students, giving up lunche or free time to see intramural sports, play games or just sit and talk. (Pictured (L to R): Ms. Kale and Robert Aikman)

Computers Help Us Set New Horizons For The Future

Computers seem to be taking over our society by chips and discs. All over the campus, new ones were introduced this year (like SAM, our truant officer), and a new wing, with real windows, was added for classes. There, students discovered new challenges and set new horizons for the future. One pet project was an arrangement of video, computerized Christmas cards, complete with carols and moving figures, put on display in our library. (Pictured: Rachel Fredenburg)

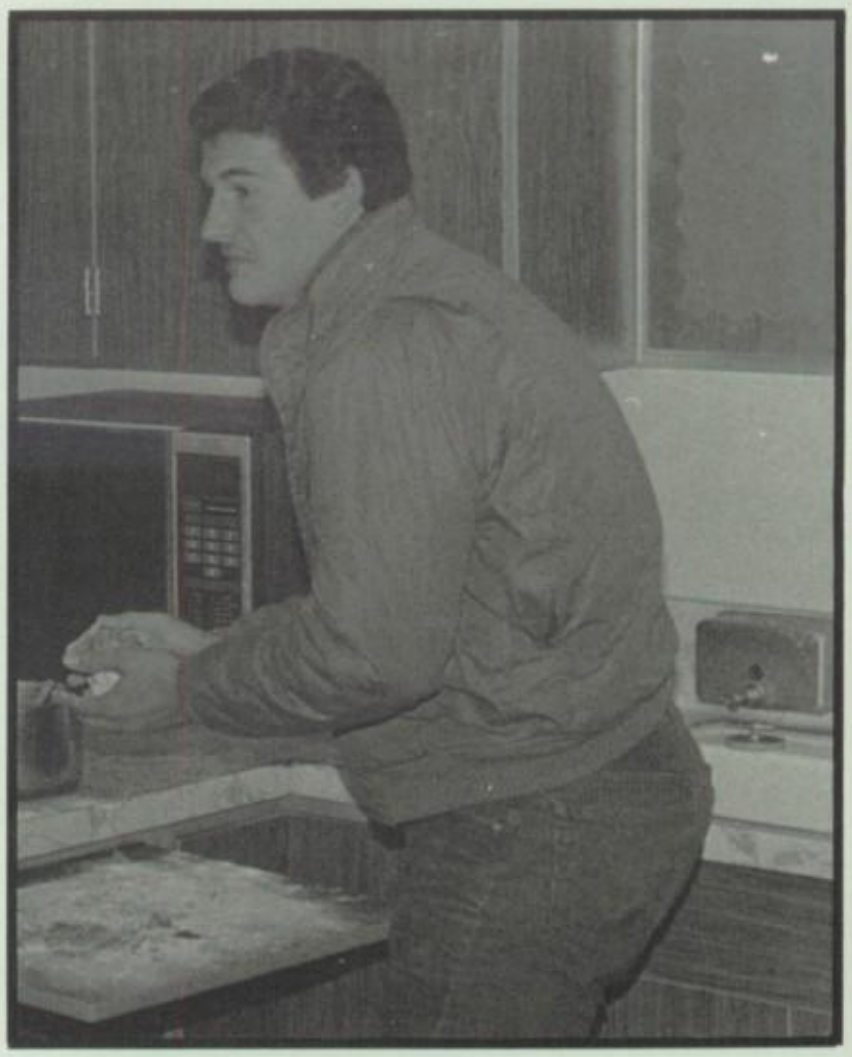


Our Business Department prepares students and give them the skills necessary to go into a business related career. A variety of classes such as, typing, stenography, accounting, business law, and office skills are offered. They help to teach not only the basic mechanical skills, but also social arts and how to interact with the professional world. Some students this year were able to take the new consumer education mastery test and get out of the required semester of filling out tax returns. (Pictured: Kim Krug)

Career Skills Are Offered By The Business Department

Mechanically Inclined Are Accommodated In Industrial Arts

Industrial education shops were woodworking, metal, auto, drafting, and architecture classes. For those who were mechanically inclined or enjoyed working the elements with their hands and minds, these courses gave first-hand experience with professional tools, environments, and situations. SPHS has a garage adjoining the classroom and growing architects designed homes on the drawing-board as well as created the models out of wood. These went on display at the mall. Knowledge plus practice gave these students skills. (Pictured: Mike Townsend)

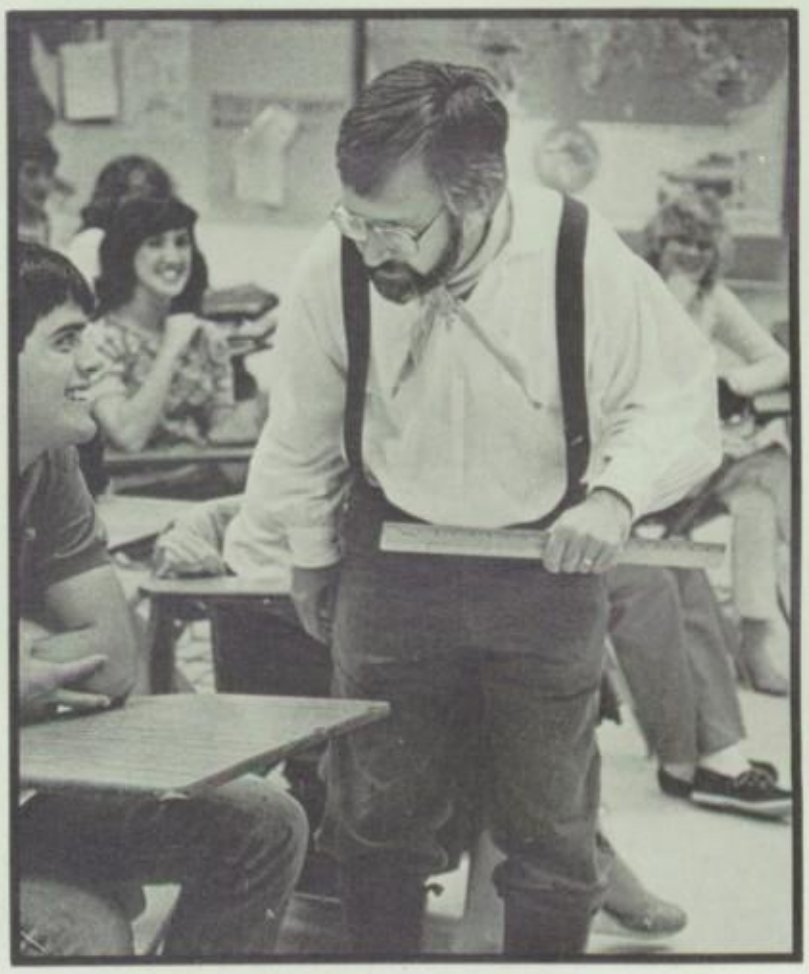


Home Economics Prepares Us To Cope With Everday Life

How would you like to take cooking just before lunch? Or take a class of rowdy pre-schoolers on a field trip? Homemaking, child development, interior design, clothing, and home economic classes prepared students to cope with hassles in the home and they brought about prospective future interests and talents that might normally not be noticed. (Pictured: Craig Lee)

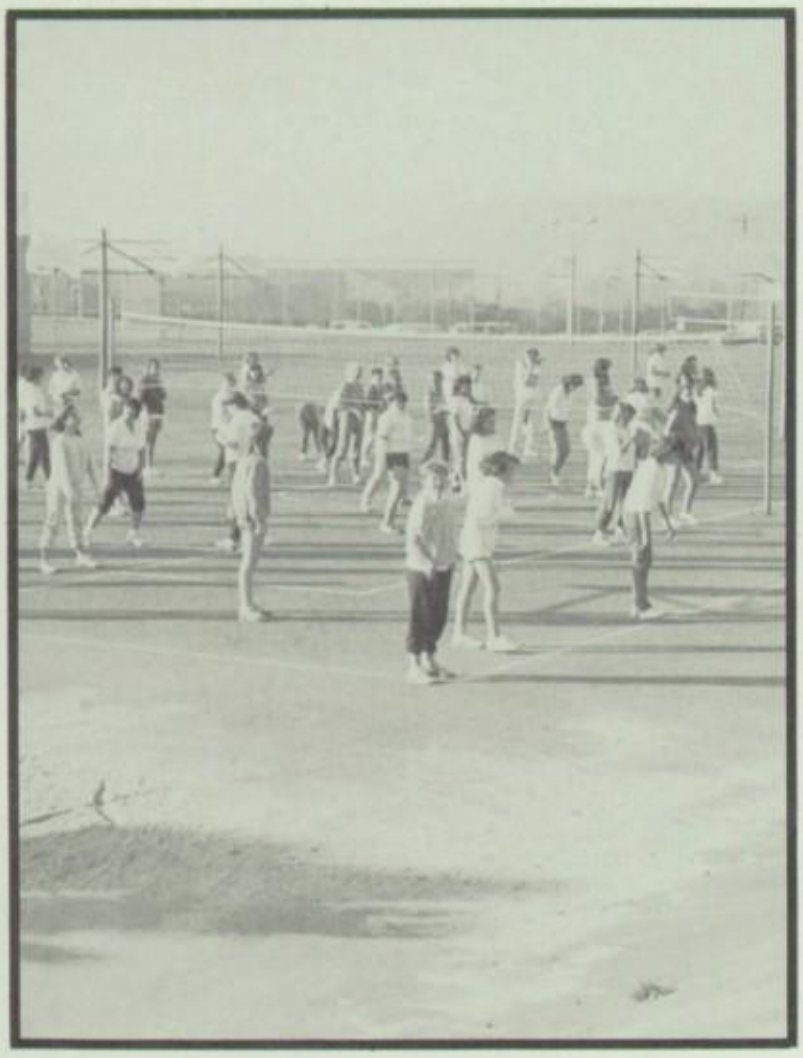
Band, Vocal Ensemble And Chorus Fill Our Ears With The Sound Of Music

Chorus and the other musical classes underwent a change in the middle of the year when Mr. Enoscoe joined us, but it didn't interfere with their performances. This year, our chorus was very small, probably the result of harder schedules. What they lacked in general force, they made up for in talent and were better than ever, and some good soloists were among them. The chorus participated in the Winter Concert, Spring Concert, and Pops Concert. The first two were general music programs given free at SPHS. The Pops was not to be missed — a grand finale of lights, music, and action. Chorus is a step to our vocal ensemble, and students learned prefessionalism as well as expanded their vocal talents. (Pictured (L to R): Tyler Wood and Gerald Lake)



"Little House On The Prairie" Lives On In Our History Department

United States History, Civics, World Geography, and World History are courses designed to meet graduation requirements, but that doesn't mean the classes are dull. Where else can you learn the methods of old-fashioned education (Priscilla, where's your slate?) or hold your own court case and preside as the judge? Mr. Dean presented a seminar to his history students on the pioneering, "Little House on the Prairie", school days. If you think you have it rough now, back then, students not only paid the teacher, but had to board him, sweep the schoolhouse, do chores there, and attend school six days a week, for 10 hours a day. (Pictured (L to R): Marc Pierucci and Mr. Dean)



P.E. Expands Our Physical Stamina

Physical Education may mean decayed socks and all the wrong partners to some, but it can have it's fun moments as well. Like the times you actually gained or lost those precious pounds, discovered a new and exciting activity, or finally raced around the track without once collapsing. A girl's, boy's, co-ed, adaptive, or modified P.E. class was a way to get outside and stretch out. Physical fitness tests were given to measure a student's abilities and strengths. Even if you can't do a pull-up or the shuttle-run in 49 seconds, (an SPHS record) grades could usually be put right with regular participation. Based on testing and grades, our school uses color-coded shorts to note levels of physical achievement. (Pictured: Girls' 2nd Period P.E.)

Sims School Provides Day Care And Study

Here at San Pasqual, a special program is available to pregnant and parent teens — the Sims school. Originally, a woman named Yora Sims held a type of home studies program on Grand Ave. In 1972 out of a desire to help the growing number of pregnant minors who wanted to finish their educations. When SPHS was built, the Sims school moved in and took off from there. Now, about 30 girls and their infants and toddlers come to get the benefits of day care and study. Under Mrs. Hanaway, they learn the main subjects, and Mrs. Smerud teaches them the skills of parenting and homemaking. Although they can, no males have enrolled in the courses and have chosen instead to visit. The 14-19 year old girls are optimistic that they can lead a successful life with an education and a helping hand.

If you can't fly with the Eagles, get out of the sky. That was the motto of this year's fighting varsity football team. It got them through many exciting games, landing them with a 7-3 overall and 4-2 league record. According to the coaches, our defense was small but quick, and had a big heart. Our offense held big linemen and although our fast runningbacks ran for over 1,000 yards, we had some super passing games. Outstanding players included Greg Bratten, Tom Dabosinskas, Ron Woerner, Tim Lockie, Paul Golberg, and Curt Brown. Although San Pasqual was favored to take CIF, they just didn't make it. Awesome games are now memories ... both defeats like El Camino, and our stellar victories like Ramona and Escondido.

The Junior Varsity football team proved strong in many areas. Not only being strong physically but also of strong mind. They were as a family and stuck together as one. As the team grew stronger, they grew together, as one. "Esprit de Corps" was one of their many mottos that explains the closeness of this group. The whole team stood out instead of one certain individual. They were undefeated in League play. With strong goals, we can be sure to expect dynamic things from these players in the future.

The freshman football team is the taking-off step for new Eagles. This year, under Coach Jayne, the team got a 2-6 record with one tie and ended up fourth in the league. They got off to a slow start, but improved and ended on a positive win over Escondido, when "it all came together". As Coach Lori Becker put it, this year's girls Varsity Volleyball team's motto may well have been, "never say die." They stayed aggressive to get to the semi-finals of CIF. One high point included having Olympic star, Caren Kemner, help out the team in practices. Junior Carrie Luttio and Kathy Vernetti were leaders in the team, both talented and inspirational. The Volleyball team ended up second in the county-the best San Pasqual has ever done.

The Junior Varisty water polo team was also an inexperienced one. They practiced with the varsity team, at a disadvantage as San Pasqual has no pool of it's own. Their coach quit soon after the season was under way, and SPHS graduate Dub Kruse took over for them. Aiming for the top on the team were Phil Larson and Selva Aslahan. Varsity Field Hockey Strides High

The field hockey team took high strides this year under second year Coach Shehan. They had a 12-5 overall record and tied with Fallbrook for second place in the league. Chris Richards, Jeannine McCoy, and Tammy West were strong leaders. Their goal was to make it to CIF, and Coach Sheehan is optimistic that next year's team will do it. Fallbrook, as their toughest competition, made a memorable game against S.P., but our girls played their hearts out and broke the deadlock tie in overtime. Field hockey gave them all a fair shot to be part of a super team.

J.V. Girls Field Hockey Stick It Out

This year's Junior Varsity Field Hockey team finished the season exultant, and with good reason. Under Coach Brad Krause's training, the enthusiastic group of girls went from basics to going out and playing their games with surprising results. With players like Rachel Fredenburg, Anne Riffle, and Susan Kroesche, the team shot it's way up to capture the Avocado League Co-Championship. Goalie Gayle Carpenter saved the day more than once with her fast-action blocks. One highlight of this season was the friendliness and accepting attitude of the team at Fallbrook High; both teams cheered each other on. This year gave them not only a victory, but many exciting prospects for next year's Varsity team.

Our Varsity girl's tennis had one super-year. Coach Ron Peet led them to the CIF Semi-Finals after a second place in league. Among the players that helped the team were Nicole Main who captured the league singles title with a record of 44 and 0, Joey Dooley and Kim Krug who won the league doubles title. These and four other S.P. girls made it to the individual CIF tournment. A lot of new talent came into the team and everyone enjoyed themselves. Coach Peet adds that tennis is an excellent conditioning sport and one that you can play at any age. "Things look good for the future" said Peet.

The spectators have caught a sense of excitement from the runners doing warm-ups. Final stretches and a look of determination combined with a subdued nervousness, and they head for the stating line. Heads bow over blue and gold uniforms as a small prayer is said, and last minute advice from the coach gives the girls a new kind of strength. They line up for the starter's gun. ... And they're off! SPHS has come to race for yet another victory ...

In keeping with their season with a purpose, the girl's Cross Country Varsity team had another stellar season. Led by Kerry Panno and Alchera Clemenshaw, the running Eagles defended their league title. The team went to the Kenny Regionals Invitational. Alchera Clemenshaw, coming in first in the junior/senior unseated race, let the competition know that San Pasqual was not to go unchallenged. Under the coach's trained eyes, the team went from first place in the league for the seventh consecutive year to a CIF victory by the top ten girls: the third time in the past four years. Through hard work and determination, the girls met their purpose.

The girl's Junior Varsity Cross Country team had a terrific season and showed some top potential for future successes. This year they were led by Abbie Thompson, Tammy Karr, and Yolanda Torres. What made the team work was their attitude of running with and for the group. The Mt. SAC races were a moment to remember, as the our Junior Varsity team came in first. In traditional style, they won the league title for the sixth time in a row, undefeated all year. Junior Varsity prepared the girls for tougher runs; it was a place for both growing and learning.

Eagle Express Is Explosive

This year's boy's Cross Country Varsity and Junior Varsity teams had a season with a purpose. They dedicated themselves to capturing the league title in the memory of Fernando Vallina, a former runner at SPHS. Practice and their famous teamwork brought them to their goal. Senior Lance Hegerle, freshman Francis O'Neil, and junior Bret Wickham led the Varsity team upwards. Enrique Fonseca and Glen Winters held their own in Junior Varsity. Along the way, members went up to the Kenny Regionals Invitational in Los Angeles and ran against top runners from eleven western states. The competition was stiff, and the learning experience was good — they learned new techniques of water-balloon throwing and midnight raids. By the end of the season, they'd tied in the league, and the top ten captured second at CIF; the highest ever in our running history. Overall, it was a terrific year.

There's a freshman boy's Cross Country team that went undefeated all season. Yes, although there were not enough girls to rally for a girl's team, these Golden eaglets upheld San Pasqual's reputation for the top runners. One highlight occurred when our freshman team won top honors at the 1985 Mt. San Antonio College (Mt. SAC) Invitational. As expected, they went on to capture the league title. Commendable teamwork and mutual support, always the hallmark of these teams, held them together on the course. With some gentle persuasion and a lot of encouragement from Coach Wester, Coach Panno, and Coach Buck, leading runners such as Brian Brady, Brad Perry, and Mitchell Jarvis finished very well. Freshmen Francis O'Neil and Bradly Trejillo started in the freshman team but moved quickly into the Varsity spotlight. The team is a stepping-stone, and members are soon to be the main-stays for our Junior Varsity and Varsity teams. Said Coach Wester, "Their dedication and unity pulled them through every time." Good job, guys!

The crowd is tense, for SPHS Leonard Rodriguez in being allowed a free throw. An intake of breaths as the ball sails in an arc and swishes through the hoop. We've won, with a mere two seconds left in the game. There will be many memories for the varsity boy's Basketball team this year, from the agonizing one point loss to Oceanside to our Dash for Cash at our home game against Ramona (which we won, by the way). The Dash for Cash, in which the holder of the ticket stub number is drawn, lets someone from the audience pick up all the scattered one dollar bills he/she can in 30 seconds. First year Coach Buck had his hands full with the Junior Varsity Boy's Basketball team. Although team members came from last year's freshman team, they tried to improve after a rocky start at the season's open. "Basically, we've had to crack down on the fundamentals," said Coach Buck, "They practiced shooting and passing and really tried hard and worked out." Some of the incessant drills paid off, like the 16 point victory over Vahalla and beating Oceanside by one. Sophomore Gilbert Toscano led most of the scores and rebounds during the season. It was one of trials, errors, battles won, and wars lost. Through it, members learned how to be a team and survive proudly against the odds.

Coach Moyneur combined fun and discipline to get his team to put forth it's maximum effort. He got players to believe in themselves and have enthusiasm. Second year Varsity Boy's Soccer Coach Ashley saw his team get off to a rough start this season. For a number of reasons, they didn't do as well as expected. Sickness going through the team, injuries, etc. kept them from reaching top potential. Red cards were frequently given to players as stern reprimands for consistantly doing wrong moves: they kicked a player off the field for that game and kept him from playing in the next game. Said the coach, "Defense is a strong point, but we're lacking our past striking power." There were high points as well this year, such as beating Grossmont, a powerful opponent. Key players were Mike Stark, Nacho Reyes, and Mike Morgan. "We are definitely a force to be recognized," said Coach Ashley, "but we just didn't get out of the starting-gate fast enough."

Coach Dan Shedd went from playing on SPHS's soccer teams for four years to the assistant varsity coach to this year's Junior Varsity boy's soccer coach. His team fought its way to the top and had a super season. Outstanding players were many, including Humberto Aguirre, Matt Combe, Jon Savin, Jim Hawkins, and Scott Lauman who was cut off early with a knee injury. "The team has a lot of heart," said Coach Shedd in an early interview, "that's the reason they've kept on winning. And they never give up." A win over Ramona was what they needed at the time, when they were second in the league and looking at next Friday's decisive game against the Bulldogs. The term "Dribblers die" was heard on the practice field many times, as Coach Shedd worked his members to be a team, not individuals. Passing got worked on, too. By the end of the season, the team was greatly improved, and there are optimistic outlooks to next year's varsity team.

Fifth year Coach Web Cate led the Freshman Boy's Soccer team through good times this year. Their season was a roller-coaster one, with them going from first to second and struggling back towards first again in league placing. Memorable games and memorable names went together, such as the game against Mt. Carmel when Stewart Smith scored three goals in the end of the fourth to tie up the game 4-4. Other noteworthy team members were Mike Mortensen, Brad Perry, and Jeorge Vega. The freshman team had to work in passing the ball harder and faster and Coach Cate's cry of "Put a little mustard on it!" was a familiar sound. It seems they heard it, because although the freshmen weren't sure of any high expectations, they became a leading contender for the league title.

Coach Bill Bullock has been on a winning streak for the past two years in leading the girl's varsity Soccer team. This year, CIF was on his mind again. A lot of action took place, such as the great planning they did for the San Marcos game. Our girls met the challenge and beat both of the local high schools as well. They played at the Holiday Tournament and in the process, Ronna Shedd gained some honors for her fast feet. Other outstanding individuals were Lisa Klapka, Dawn Evans, and Chris Kuhlmeyer. Coach Bullock has coached for three years now, and took his team to the finals in 1982. This year seemed to follow the pattern. Everyone got along well and put forth a lot of effort for this successful season.

"This year the Junior Varsity girls soccer is going to go for it!" exclaimed an enthusiastic Coach Chlebowski at an early interview. She's been coaching for San Pasqual for the past three years, and loves it. Their goal was to win league. Their most important game occured at the Holiday Tournament in which they placed second. Kathy Harrison won most valuable JV player here, and at the end of the season other outstanding players were Kathy Day and Shannon Etson. As for other games, they tied up with Torrey Pines after losing to them for the past two years. They also beat our local high schools' teams. The strongest team they played against was San Marcos, and they defeated them on the first match. Coach Chelowbski never played soccer in her life until she gradually learned from one of her daughters. She went on to study soccer and became an enthusiastic coach for San Pasqual.

This year, Coach Cherkins wanted to get kids interested in his sport, wrestling, and what better place to start than with the freshmen? He wanted wrestling to be popular like other sports. The first step was encouragement. Coach Cherkins came from Escondido High School to hustle the fighting Eagles to a CIF victory. This year, frosh wrestling went up against their toughest adversary, Escondido, and, although they didn't do so well, the experience taught them and they got tougher. The team went to a tournament sponsored by and staged at Poway High School and placed tenth out of 16. Joshua Allen and Tom Winter placed third in the 147 class. Coach Cherkins inspired his team to dedicate individuals to learn and enjoy it at the same time.

Varsity And JV Boys' Wrestling Stands Tall

The goal of the boy's varsity wrestling team was to make it to the State finals. Did that say "boy's"? That's no longer the case. You see, the school board changed the rules, and now allow girls to join the teams. At San Pasqual, three girls tried out but one way or another did not get on the team. Our team wrestled other teams with female members, but not one on one ... so far. They anticipate this with very mixed feelings. Coach Ron Cherkins led them on and both the varsity and junior varsity teams kept up past performance records, although they were always aiming a little bit higher. There were a lot of new people out this year, but the varsity did win two consecutive dual matches in a row, something they haven't done in a long time. The junior varsity and varsity teams may not have gone to the State Finals, but the upcoming years of females may make history.

Varsity Baseball Fields A Win

This year's Varsity Baseball team isn't all new. There were six returning and eight new players. The team altogether was young and inexperienced, but had great potential to live up to the victories of last years' team. Their coach Pedro Vasquez liked his players to have a strong desire to succeed, and the discipline it took to work together. Through hard work and dedication, this year's team was successful.

JV Boys' Baseball Steps Up To Bat

The 1984-85 JV Baseball team under Coach McAllister came in second, only to Carlsbad High, in the Avacado league. The 1985-86 team under Coach Allured hoped to do as well, if not better. Coach Allured in his sixth year of coaching baseball saw a lot of potential in the kids trying out. He found it hard to make two cuts of six or seven guys. The coach thought the toughest competitor of the season would be Orange Glen. He believes that discipline, support from the school and the player's families, lots of hour's practice, and understanding on his part are all things that it takes to make a good team. Coach Allured's goal for the 85-86 season was to "Make each player the best that HE can be".

Coach Vasquez likes coaching baseball because he "Likes being with the kids". He says that dedication, hard work, mental discipline, and fun on the kids and the coach's parts as well are what make an excellent team. Coach Vásquez said that Escondido and San Marcos would be their toughest competitors because they are our "natural rivals".

Varsity Girls' Softball Steps Up To The Plate

This year's Varsity Softball team showed a lot of strength and potential. Both of these qualities, said Coach Basalo, were very important to making a good team. After making CIF playoffs and finishing second place overall in the league last year, the team was sure it would have a winning season. There were several returning players, but plenty of new faces, too. The team was basically all Juniors. San Marcos was expected to be the toughest competition, since they were the defending champs. With the help of a new assistant coach, Lori Becker, and the more routine use of a pitching machine, the Eagle girls had a more spirited and "together" team.

JV Softball Striving To Win

This year's Junior Varsity Softball team went in swinging. They were the second time defending league champs and aimed to capture a third. Coach Dolan prepared these girls for the third year, having earned them league title each time - his team had only lost two league games in the two years. With a record like that, they couldn't help but have a super season. Competitive games against Carlsbad and San Marcos determined their success on the field. Girls on the diamonds (not the other way around) like Kristin Haag, Erin Welch, Kathy Harrison, and Sheila Teach made each game exciting and a group effort. These players went on to plan for next year's teams . . . Varsity Softball, watch out!

Varsity Girls' Track Goes For The Title

With the majority of the 1985 varsity and junior varsity girls' track Avocado league champions returning for the track team this year, Coach Will Wester, a nine year veteran of the San Pasqual track program, hoped to capture another league title for the Eagles. Along with Coach Wester's dreams for another victory, the team also hoped to do well in CIF. The girls went for their fourth league title and were all but guaranteed it with help from relay members Andrea Miller, Shawn Miller, Kristi Kaufman, and Nicole Rothey. The help of the long distance runners Laurie Gannon, Joey Dooley, Alchera Clemenshaw, Kerry Panno, discus thrower Kris Buringrud, and high jumper Carrie Luttio gave the team strong support throughout the season.

This year, nine individuals helped our sports' teams keep up their hectic pace with a lot of hard work. The trainers had members at every game in case of an accident, injuries, minor problems, and even just making sure there was water around for thirsty players. They took some of the pressures off the coaches. Head trainers Amy Loveland and Kris Buringrud admitted the job was not easy. New trainers go through taping, first aid clinics, CPR classes, and practices the year beforehand. During the sports' seasons, they're in the training room anywhere from four to six hours after school, lending a hand. A lot of their work is in rehabilitation for injured players. They make sure the players are getting back in shape correctly and safely. This program is possibly the closest thing SPHS offers in the way of nursing, combined with athletic training.

Seniors Were Out For Revenge

This year was made unique in the twisted effects of tradition when Powder Puff season came around, and the senior girls were thinking hard. Last year, as juniors, they'd beaten both traditions. This year, it seemed as though fickle fate would repeat itself, and the seniors were out for revenge or blood, whichever they could get. Practices were rigorous, and the seniors who were caught in anything gold had to do laps for reminding Coach Dabo of juniors. They shared the practice field with their opponents, as well as malicious stares and ominous chants.

Juniors Weren't Intimidated

There was the usual mob of juniors on the Powder Puff team; all were fired up, and all were confident of victory. They discovered a new side to their opponents — a frenzy for fairness — and planned to take advantage of it. Both teams played three dollars extra on their jerseys to go to legitimate referees for the game. The "hired" ones were replaced with people usually in the audience, Mr. Salas and Mr. Marcus among them. They practiced hard, and mottos such as "Pain for Dane and no owees" made them mentally prepared for anything. Confident in both offense and defense, they believed a fair game could see them to an unheard of win over the seniors.

Powder Puff Assembly

It was a pep rally like no other, honoring a once-a-year event — the Powder Puff football game. Many of the traditions were carried out faithfully by the participating girls and their coaches during the assembly. The Seniors had their slow jog around the gym, showing off personalized blue jerseys which read, among others, "Luttio Dies" to the tune of "United". They sat in seats of honor and stared down the Juniors who weren't impressed. From a mob of gold jerseys in the bleachers, they began clapping and chanting their own opinions. The Seniors simply read the daily paper with cool detachment. Other sports were mentioned and Ms. Marcus our favorite home-making teacher who was leaving for the district office, was bid a standing farewell. Then, in came the Powder Puff cheerleaders. They were the real highlight of the rally, as both sides could laugh at their crazy cheers, hairy legs in short skirts, and the make up on male faces. The hour-long rally put tension up another notch and gave spirit to the teams.

Powder Puff Game In Action

That Saturday dawned grey and gloomy, matching the outlook of both Powder Puff teams. Would there be a game at all? It was now or never, for only a certain number of weeks were allowed for practice, and then they couldn't. Determined that a little drizzle wouldn't melt them, morning practice was carried out, and they peered anxiously at the sky. Meanwhile, back at our unfinished stadium, the traditional manure dump was being committed. Later, the field was cleared and mud puddles were filled with sawdust. The sun sank slowly and the clouds thickened. Coach Dabasinskas spent over an hour talking Mr. Schirmer and Mrs. Leaf into letting the game go on, and it started at 7:30 instead of 6:30. A sudden downpour hailed the first half, which passed with neither side scoring. Tension mounted even as the cheerleaders passed footballs around. Then, in the third quarter, junior Kristi Kaufman made a touchdown. It was the spark that finally ignited the seniors. Andrea Miller ran in the senior's first touchdown not soon after, and in the fourth quarter, Dana Strickland caught a long pass from Missy Mackay on the one-yard line. It was run in for the second and final touchdown of the night. There were, thankfully, no injuries although most hostility was released as name calling and hitting. The seniors did "up-downs" in the biggest mud puddle they could find and then drove off to party. The juniors just thought about their big season next year.

It's a unique experience, being a senior. Just when you make it to the top, you discover that there is no top. That though the world is a ladder, it reaches no actual limits. Always, we go on to bigger and better things. Completing a high school education here at San Pasqual is one giant step on that ladder. One golden step to be treasured as memories. We pause and look back—laughing and sighing and knowing we'll never come back again. Here's to the class of 1986!

A. Seniors get hand-fed around here.
B. Music soothes the savage seniors!
C. Senior class officers: Jason Bill, president; Darby Barrett, vice-president; Jeff Doria, treasurer; Laura Wendell, secretary.

Hawkins Dances All That Jazz

This past year was the first at SPHS for Brazilian Rita Hawkins. She came to America in the eighth grade and danced jazz on the dance team for two years at Orange Glen. From the beginning, it was obvious to the instructor Mrs. Watkins, that she had talent. When Hawkins moved and transferred to San Pasqual, she was too late to join our own dance team and ended up still dancing with Orange Glen's. This year, they performed for schools and brought in a large crowd for their spring show. Since she couldn't practice with the group, Hawkins choreographed her own solo dances. She jogged every morning and then spent an hour or so picking the right music, creating moves, and rehearsing. She enjoys jazz because it's so fast and fluid. "Ballet is too slow," she said, "and jazz has snappy movements." She goes to watch dances and tries to work new steps into her routine. Although she says she will really start to dance in college, she'd like to major in foreign languages and become an interpreter. She's had three years of French, plans to take Spanish next year, and already speaks her native tongue, Portugese. Hawkins learned English only several years ago, but speaks it like a pro. She would like to dance with both school's dance teams next year. The future is limitless to a person with ambition.

Class Officers

This year's junior class officers were Todd Brose, president; Roberto Salas, vice president; Laura McAllister, treasurer; and Kathy Vernetti, secretary. All four worked especially well together to represent their class and organize activities. Individually, they were supportive of the school and have goals of their own. Todd Brose was on baseball and varsity football until he broke his wrist. He would like to go to Cal State, Fullerton, and either play professional baseball or be a history teacher. Roberto Salas is very much like Brose. He played on varsity football and baseball. He plans to go to SDSU but is undecided on his major. Laurie McAllister was involved in swimming, Care Crew, and Ski Club. She plans to attend UCSB, major in language/communications, and interpret French. Kathy Vernetti was on varsity volleyball and softball. She plans on majoring in communications/media. The main job of the class officers was the planning of their winning Homecoming float — Cinderella.

Artistic Talents Thrive At SPHS Meet Heilig

Martyn Heilig had his first two periods in the same room this year: drawing and commercial art. One period later, he could be found in crafts. Although he transferred to San Pasqual in the middle of his sophomore year from Canada, he has taken many art classes. During that second semester, Heilig earned himself the "Artist of the Year" award from our art instructor, Ms. Smith. He says his family enjoys drawing, but he's the one who has the real chance to become a professional. He spent his spare time drawing cartoons, sketching, etc. for friends, entering a calendar contest with a drawing of a California scene from a photograph he took, and tried his creative hands on various artwork. Heilig continues to look around for a favorite art form, and plans to be in ceramics and advanced art next year. He says most of his required classes are taken care of, so he can afford this luxury. He looks up to the great Walt Disney and his world of cartoon characters. He gets inspirations and advice from Disney's books, movies, etc. He would like to major in art in college and sell some of his work to his brother who owns a San Diego car company. For now though, he's enjoying himself and expanding his talents at San Pasqual.

Powell Dances Way Through High School

Sharon Powell deserves some recognition for the past eleven years. Across the nation, she's taken ballet and dance and has stayed determined to enjoy what she likes most. Although her grandmother was an outstanding teacher and dancer of ballet in New York, it was Powell's idea to start as a child. Since then, she's pirouetted her way up. Over this year she danced in San Marcos' New West Ballet as Arabian, Spanish, Clara's mother, and in the corps of the annual famed Nutcracker at Palomar, and performed for schools and nursing homes with her troupe. This sometimes meant six or more days of rehearsal a week, but she wouldn't think of giving it up. "Ballet is the best," said Powell, "It's traditional, disciplined, and when you work hard for a goal, it gives a terrific sense of accomplishment." She admires all that have gone on to be professionals. She enjoys watching performances as well, because she knows what hard work went behind each well-done move. She can appreciate it more because of her experience. Although she'd like to dance in college, she doesn't like the idea of ballet as a career. So few make it; it isn't right for her. Powell may become a veterinarian, but isn't quite sure.

Sophomore Class Officers Step Forward

This year's sophomore class officers were involved in a variety of things. President David Emerson was on varsity football and track, and enjoys skiing, golf, and listening to music. He's thinking about majoring in business/economics at UCLA. Vice president Nicole Maine was on varsity basketball and tennis and enjoys skiing. She plans to go to UCLA and play professional tennis. Secretary Nicole Atherton was involved in swimming. She's won ribbons in English and likes to watch TV and listen to music. She plans to major in newscasting or management. Treasurer Ric Aschbrenner was on JV football and baseball. He enjoys surfing and skiing. He'd like to attend UCLA. As a group, they organized their float for Homecoming, The Three Little Pigs. They kept their class informed and had some opinions of the year's policies, including a dislike of the new tardy system, and such short grading periods. "It's great to know you have all those people behind you," said Emerson.

Faucher's Art Decorates Downtown

On October 26, 1985, April Faucher won second place for the "comical theme" in a window decorating contest at JC Penny's. The picture of famous Halloween favorites, combined with her talent, earned her 25 dollars and a luncheon by the sponsoring Rotary Club. Faucher enjoyed beginning ceramics as a freshman but pressing required classes ended that all too soon. However, this past year she's been busy designing spirit ribbons, sketching for friends, creating a comic strip called "James Cat: 007½" for the school paper, and making use of the school's supplies to pursue her hobby. Faucher was the Vice President of the Craft Guild which she's been in for two years. She'd like to become an art teacher for junior high levels or possibly expand in other areas. Be watching for April Faucher's work in the years to come.

Sobel Hopes To Pedal His Way To The Olympics

Among the sophomores at SPHS this past year was David Sobel. An organizer of the Bike Club, and avid bicyclist, he has the dream of making a show at the 1992 Olympic Games. At the moment, Sobel tries to get in at least two to three hours a day, four to five days a week of pedaling and intends to build that slowly upwards. Sobel got in his first season in the spring, on Fiesta Island. He'd like to get a coach and improve on the road. After San Pasqual, he'd like to try out for the Junior Olympic Team in Colorado or get on a collegiate team in the west. The Junior Olympics travel the world for a year and "gives good hopes," says Sobel. And from there? If he doesn't get on the Olympic Team, he'll remain riding, possibly around Europe bacause "it's really a European sport". He looks up to the likes of Greg Le Mond because of his good attitude in racing and yes, his victories. Dreams don't come easy; but Sobel is willing to work for his.

Bray Toots His Horn

Jay Bray has played the trombone since the fifth grade, and it shows. As a sophomore this past year, he played with our band under Ms. Dominguez's instruction, soloed, and took private lessons at home once or twice a week. Although his parents got him hooked, Bray plans to put his talents to work for him. He'll play in San Pasqual's band until he graduates. As a senior, he hopes to join McDonald's All American Band which tours the USA and other countries. He's likely to get a music scholarship and play in college but plans to major in journalism/broadcasting. He not only enjoys collecting football and baseball cards but tries to predict the games. Bray was on our golf team this year. He looks up to graduate Gerald Lake who "helped out a lot, and is an excellent musician." Bray is always trying to improve himself. He loves to perform for people, and the applause and praise he gets makes all his practice worthwhile.

Clayton Is In The Ball Game

Jimmie Clayton is an up-and-coming sports star. This year, he was a runningback on football, a forward and guard on basketball, and shortstop and third baseman on the baseball team. He really enjoyed it although it meant about two hours a day practicing. A freshman's schedule isn't exactly easy, but he managed to make the honor roll. His favorite sport is baseball. He follows his brother's footsteps — their team captured league championship and went to the stadium. Clayton would like to see his own team do the same one year. He would like to play professionally one day as shortstop. He looks up to shortstop Ozzie Smith in this and admires the Padres as a team. Clayton was a homecoming prince this year, joining princess Ali Miller, and had fun being in the spotlight. He was involved in golf, though he doesn't plan on trying out for our team. He goes to the beach with friends and to the Escondido Athletic Club in his spare time, anything to stay athletic. Clayton tries to balance his sports and his schoolwork, and has gotten off to a good start. He's set his sights on a goal. Let's hope his is a home run.

Design, Dance Opens Deels To Brown

Landra Brown was a freshman this year and, like so many others, was unsure of what San Pasqual had to offer. She's been in jazz for three years now, taken lessons, and danced with her group in the Vineyard. She was too late to join our dance team but intends to. She was also in ceramics, which she plans to advance in, and enjoyed creating things with clay. She enjoys tennis and golf, also. Brown plans to attend college and major in business/fashion merchandising as she has an eye for designs as well. For now, though, she's enjoying her talents, using the arts to express herself.

Artist Freeman Flourishes

Among the art fans getting their start at San Pasqual this year was freshman Emerson Freeman. He took both an art class and beginning ceramics with Mr. Theonnes and did above average work. Art class gave Emerson a way out for his talents as well as time to think and create. His best drawings are of horses, which he's drawn since he was a kid. Freeman's favorite class though, was ceramics. He enjoyed working with his hands, taking a general theme and making it his own unique creation . . . a box, a whistle, or a practical utensil. He hopes to take more art classes in the future, as well as go further in the wrestling and football he was in. As #74, he was tackle on the football team and made many new friends. He enjoys contact sports and wanted to see how good he'd be. After an hour or so of practice, Freeman usually "bums around" and likes to listen to 91X for a while. After San Pasqual, he'd like to attend Brigham Young University, his artwork to remain only a hobby. He's undecided on his major. For now, though friends ask him for drawings, and he's received many a compliment, most of Freeman's work goes into the trashcan. He's constantly trying to improve himself. That's what it takes to make a masterpiece.

Tennis Is Miller's Racket

One of the top players on the girl's varsity tennis team this year was Alison Miller. A little help, ambition, and talent was all it took. Her father, a player of ten years, gave her lessons, a membership in a club, and lots of encouragement. She's played in tournaments, trying to increase her rank in San Diego women's singles, when she wasn't practicing for the team. They got second in league, Miller ranking third. Outside of her passion for the sport, she was a Homecoming princess and enjoys reading, going to the beach, and water skiing. She plans to be an accountant and attend either Pepperdine or UCLA. Miller's immediate plans, however, are to achieve her potential in tennis.

O'Neil Races To The Top

When Francis O'Neil ran at Del Dios Middle School, he, his coach, and Coach Wester from SPHS knew one thing — he was going to run on our team. And well, this year, he went to CIF finals on our boys' Varsity Cross Country team and upheld his reputation in track. Through his practice and dedication, he grew better and better. He was first in the league finals, second in prelims, and first in CIF on our team. The team was fun and supportive, but O'Neil looks up to senior Lance Hegerle because he made his work harder to beat him. He enjoyed metal and wood shop at S.P. and loves to surf in his spare time. He's undecided about college. O'Neil has three years of running to go and who knows where his feet will take him from there?

Pat Ross Principal

Door Always Open To Principal

Walk into the front office and take a look at Mr. Ross' door — it'll be open. Most students pass through SPHS and never get the privilege to meet our director. Did you know that he's always wanted to be there to help students out? He came from the East to teach at Escondido High in 1957. He was there as the proud principal on Orange Glen's opening day in 1962. After that, he directed the action at Escondido High from 1976 and finally set his sights on SPHS in 1983.

Three time's a charm, and Mr. Ross made his third year here the best ever. He improved the food services at lunch and helped us cope with staying here. Test scores improved and our pride in academics grew even more this year. The tennis courts were entirely refinished. Mr. Ross kept up our rigorous relationship with Burroughs, which included the celebration of the corporation's 100th anniversary.

In conclusion, our principal sees himself as a general manager because everything is ultimately his responsibility. He's only here to help us and asks that anyone who develops an idea, wants an opinion, needs a service, or would just like to know why a decision was made, to remember that his door is always open.

Academic Decathalon

The USAD is a national Olympics for the minds of our representing team. The team of seven members includes A, B, and C grade upperclassmen. Mrs. Keithley led them to 11th place out of 47 schools in our county, answering questions in the ten categories. Four members played in Scholastic Superstars, a TV program on Channel 10, and won $300.

Academic League

The three Academic League teams were ready for the tough competitions this year, and preparations went on all first semester. During practices, questions were made up about general knowledge in the academic area, such as: "Under what male name did English novelist Mary Ann Evans write?" Buzzers were hit and the fastest draw had the chance to answer. Our teams played other schools for league placings, but competitions against a team of parents and one of teachers were held in the form of fundraisers by the Varsity team. As for the real thing, the Varsity members had the potential to reach the top, for three out of the six were from the original freshman team of three years ago that was the first to start on the SPHS campus. Mr. Dean, Mr. Bryant, and Mrs. Bohannon led their students through the Avocado League and had a good, strong showing. And if you answered "George Eliot" to the above question, The Academic League may be the place for you.

California Scholarship Foundation

Mr. Fredenburg advised the California Scholarship Federation, which encourages academic excellence and makes certain scholarships available to members. Members must have three A's and one B to join, and as a club they went on a marine biology cruise, held fundraisers, and planned Disneyland and other trips.

International Club

American students at San Pasqual had the opportunity to meet our foreign friends in this club, as well as welcome returning students who spent their summer in another country. Members are interested in other races and customs and the club had meetings and parties.

International Club Bottom Row: Karrie Holland; Amara Willey; Kathy Tsoulos; Augustine San Jose; Christina Barcina, and Sabina Fritz. Top Row: Bruce Smith, and Christine Kirner.

Pep Club

One club that really had it's ups and downs was the new Pep Club. Organizer Mrs. DeVroeg got it off the ground, and the officers led crusades to ball-games, with painted cars, signs, cheers, and our school colors flying high. Members wore club tops, and, although only a few sports were honored by their presence, spirit made a come-back.

Ski Club

Because the school wouldn't insure this sport, the Ski Club is an extension of the Boy Scout Explorers. Skiing is an expensive but exciting sport. Members took a trip to Utah over Christmas and to Mammoth over Easter vacations. It was about $400 each, not including equipment, meals, or details, but all agreed it was worth it.

Associated Student Body

San Pasqual's A.S.B. helped to plan school activities this year. Among them was the Halloween Dance with DJ Steve West from the 91X radio station who gave out free albums for the best costumes. The Winter Dance was highlighted when a live band, "Cat Trax" played. The A.S.B. came to the rescue on the closed campus situation by bringing in foods from local fast foods restaurants — Godfather's Pizza and Del Taco, for example. Music was played every three days or so to listen to, and a poll was taken to find out what kind of music most students liked. A huge profit-making success was their idea of selling Pepsi and other drinks at lunch from a fountain booth. Advisor Mr. Schirmer and volunteer helper Mrs. Marcos planned for a hypnotist during a pep rally held during the semester finals week. The students who stuck around were amazed at the stunts, which ranged from telling people they were strippers and cartoon characters to making a girl stiff as a board, and then standing on her body laid across two chairs.

The book you're reading is the finished product of a year of hard work and dedication on the part of the yearbook staff. Members hustled to write, photo, type, do layouts, interview, and gather information. In the end, all, including advisor Mrs. Knight, agreed the hard work paid off.

Drama Club

Theater arts were kept alive by the Drama Club. Director Ms. Boyd led casts for two plays this year. The combined talents of both new members and old led to a refreshingly fun time. The auditions were open to anyone, and if the perfect part wasn't made, members attended parties, professional plays, workshops, etc., to perfect their skills.

Care Crew

This year, the SADD Club was replaced and expanded by the Care Crew. The support of Ms. Boedeker got it off to a start, and the group met during lunch or any time they were needed. The Care Crew is for peer counseling and open discussion on issues such as drugs, suicide, alcoholism, and other pressures teens feel. They had guest speakers and through the year, gave and took support in a non-threatening, trusting atmosphere. That's what caring is all about.

French/German Club

Energetic Frau Squires led this group through a fun year, including ski trips, foreign dinners, cultural fundraisers (remember the Gummi bears?), parties, and joining a national honorary society for those who'd gotten A's in their language. Although knowing the language wasn't necessary, an interest in the lands and having fun, was.

Spanish Club

Trips to our nearest neighboring country, Cinco de Mayo festivities, drives for Tijuana orphanages, and attending a Spanish play were only a few of the activities this club, led by Ms. Mojica, got into. Most members make use of the language when, for instance, ordering a Mexican lunch. With this fascinating culture so close, why not investigate?

Newspaper Staff

The school newspaper is a resource not many students take seriously. The staff was out to change that this year. They set goals and worked to meet them. Since the E.O. is for our campus the staff tried to keep it on student level interests and encouraged anyone with ideas, writings, and opinions to submit them.

Chorus

Chorus, as well as the other musical classes underwent a change in the middle of the year when Ms. Dominguez was replaced by Mr. Enoscoe, but it didn't interfere with their performance. This year, our chorus was very small, probably the result of harder schedules. What they lacked in general force, they made up for in talent and were better than ever, some soloists rising up. The chorus participated in the Winter concert, Spring concert, and Pops concert. The first two were general music programs given free at SPHS. The Pops was not to be missed — a grand finale of lights, music, and action. Chorus is a step up to our vocal ensemble, and students learned professionalisms as well as expanded their vocal talents.

Dance Team

Flags

The SPHS Dance Team, otherwise known as "All that Glitters", shone bright this year. Their combined talents brought the team to many facets of entertaining people. In their bold blue bodysuits and flashy tinsel, this included our wild pep rallies, half-time field shows at home football games, and Saturday competitions against other high schools. Touring the Los Angeles indoor circuit in the spring took concentration. They spent time trying to put as many professional and meticulate moves as possible into their routines. Team unity, high expectations, and lots of practice brought them to the top.

Among the smartly marching band and graceful moves of the dance team, during football game half-times was the flowing colors of the tall flags unit. This sharp look and visual impact was what first intrigued Captain Linda Walker to the flag corps, but she realized that it really took coordination and an acquired skill to put the flags into perfect unison for performances. The tall flags showed up for pep rallies, football games, and parades with the band in the fall, and then went to the indoor L.A. circuit as a team for the spring in flashy new uniforms. The Pops Concert was a whirling finishing touch to the team's year. Under Linda Walker, Karrie Holland, and Jolynn Sanders the team was pretty much self-sufficient; small enough that the girls became good friends and could share fun times as well as hard work.

Band

Vocal Ensemble

Under the stern discipline of Ms. Dominguez, the band won the most sweepstakes ever in San Pasqual's history this year. Thursday night practices as well as first period and after school time made the band one finely tuned instrument. They played for home football games, pep rallies, festivals, Pops Concert, and the Winter Concert. The band was invited to play in the Chaffy Tournament of Champions and other prestigious competitions. The marching Eagles are definately on the way up.

This year the Vocal Ensemble had an aura of professionalism around it that made it stand out in a crowd. It might have come from their new black dresses and electric blue sequins that they made themselves (not to mention the nice appearance of the men) but what was really impressive was the amount of performances they did. The singing group of eighteen went everywhere from churches, mobile home parks, clubs, and organizations to the elementary and junior high schools in the area, both entertaining and getting future prospects for the San Pasqual vocal program. They performed at SPHS for the Winter, Spring, and Pops Concerts and sang in the Vineyard as well. During the second semester with Mr. Enoscoe, the Vocal Ensemble added choreography to their act. With all the applause they received this year, the members really have something to carol about.

Future Farmers Of America

Among the trees and cows in the Agriculture Department, sending interesting aromas through the tennis courts, is a division of the Future Farmers of America. To join, members have to be enrolled in an agriculture class. Conventions are attended for elections and such, and then our members get involved in other projects — elementary school programs, convalesant home visits, field days, judging, and even capturing a first place with their Christmas Day parade float.

Vocational Industrial Clubs

Mr. Hammer leads a branch of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America here on campus. The club is for skills from bricklaying to nursing and members have meetings and mock competitions. They prepare for the real thing — Regionals, State, National, and International Olympics. Most of the members are male, as our school offers only drafting, metal shop, etc. for the necessary skills.

Craft Guild

This club, led by Mr. Theonnes, Greg Armstrong, and Andy Goodwin, was not for necessarily the talented, but creative and interested students. The club's activities included putting a graphic on the exercise room wall at Burroughs, murals for the 300 and 400 building halls, art field trips, and doing all of our football spirit ribbons.

Los Latanos

The newest club to start up on SPHS is the Los Latanos Club. A couple of people felt the need to organize a group of Hispanics and get out to do some things. Originally, it was just a group of friends. They went all the way to Mr. Ross to get a room to use for meetings, and it turned out that Mr. Ross himself became their advisor, although the students lead and organize everything. The committee that started it led the club through fundraisers to go to Knott's Berry Farm and other trips. The main purpose of which was to get people with common interests together and out of trouble. Anyone can join, but most of the members are Mexican, and the meetings are usually held in Spanish. The Los Latanos members are very optimistic about the future and had a fun time creating a club.

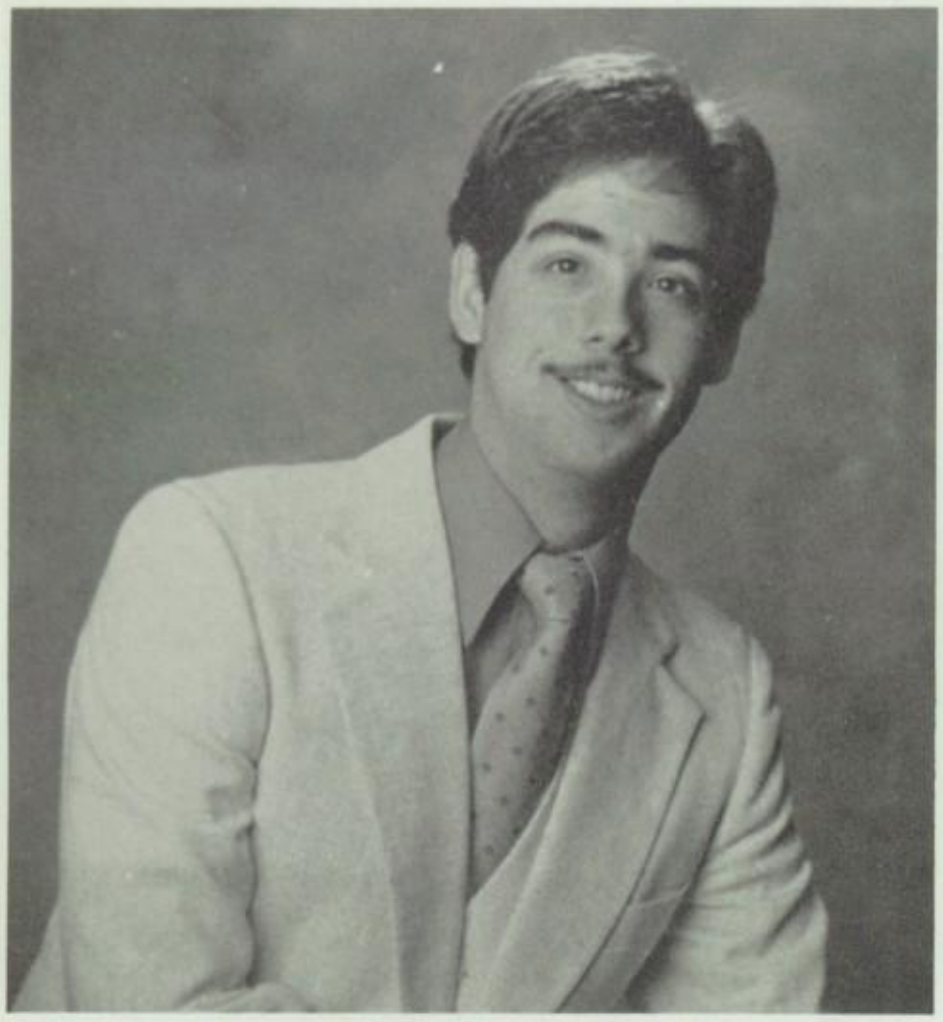
In Memory Of Scott Finely



Scott Finely
Born April 29, 1967
Died July 25, 1985

"In time we will grow, we will change, as free as the wind and the waves. Live your life the way you choose, find the ones who laugh with you. Like the sea will find its way to shore, as the sun sinks from the sky, live your life and you will find there's no regrets, only good times."

Scott Finely

In Memory Of Fernando Vallina

Fernando Vallina
Born September 10, 1968
Died July 25, 1985

"You can never forget someone like him.
You don't think of it when you're busy, but when things are really quiet, or when you're getting ready for a race, or just before you go to sleep at night, he's there."

In Memory Of Kenneth Krok

Kenneth Krok
Born: October 1, 1969
Died: June 15, 1985

"Keep in mind that no one is to blame and should never feel shame."

When we walk down the hall, we say hello or maybe flash a smile.
We don't take the time to say we care,
and sit to talk awhile.

Ken was a friend, someone we loved,
and hated to say goodbye,
We didn't realize he wouldn't be here,
having fun with all the guys
Let's remember the times when Ken felt
Van Halen would always shine.
He won't be forgotten that we know for sure
Let's learn from this and show our love for it's the only cure.

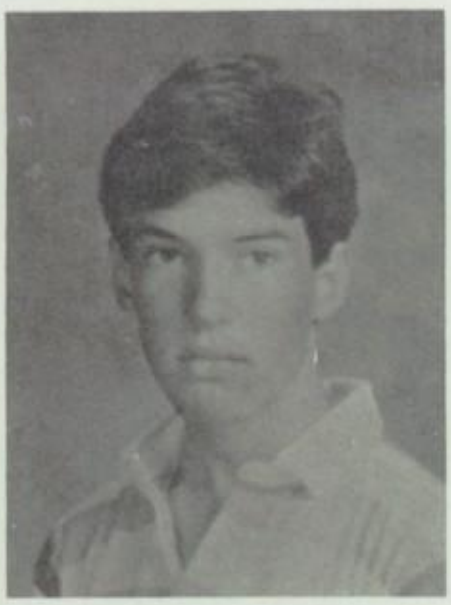
In Memory Of Darin Seegrist



Darin Seegrist
Born: July 23, 1969
Died: July 22, 1985

I see a door that had no lock,
Yet there was no chance to knock and find out what was inside.
Perhaps, the door could only hide
The silent thoughts all his own,
Or perhaps he thought he was alone.
We don't know; he left us much too soon,
But we remember a special person not yet in bloom.

In Memory Of Jeff Hoadly

Jeff Hoadley
Born: July 3, 1971

Sunlight shot down to the crisp, green lawn a sweet, lovely song. Forget the past, For now it's gone. Only the future holds the key, for hope, as we live on.
